Khanukah is not a Biblically mandated celebration but has been celebrated from the time of Sinai. It was called the Khanukah (dedication) of the altar, the Khanukah (dedication) of the house of David, and the Khanukah (dedication) of the house of God (the Temple). In short, Khanukah, or the dedication of the Temple has always been observed by the Children of Yisrael in celebration of the triumph over our enemies. It is the celebration of God's children receiving a victory for which they couldn't possibly have gained through their own merit.

Y'shua celebrated this feast [Joh 10:23-23]. In fact, Y'shua celebrated every feast every year, including the Shabat each and every Saturday. Neither Y'shua nor His disciples ever celebrated the Shabat on Sunday, in fact in the letter to the Hebrews, chapter four, verse eight, one of the disciples said,

Hebrews 4:8 For if ישוע (Y'-shu-a) would have given them a Shabat, would He not have spoken concerning another day among us?

That is to say, if Y'shua would have wanted His followers to change the day they celebrate the Shabat, He would have mentioned it to His talmudim (His disciples). Khanukah is a great time for Synagogues to gather their people together to paint, clean, organize etc. Every Synagogue could use a week of upkeep by its members. Also, Khanukah is a great time for families to perform some early spring cleaning at home. Think of it as a yearly, dedication of our temple, i.e., a yearly dedication of our Synagogues and our homes. Follow Y'shua's example and celebrate Khanukah, you'll be glad you did.

Pesakh/Unleavened-Bread (Passover) begins on the 14th day of the 1st month after the sun goes down [Exo 12:18]

The meal is to be served after the sun goes down on the 1st day; it is to be consumed with unleavened bread and a bitter herb [Exo 12:8]. No egg, no chicken, no shank bone (these traditions are in violation of To-rah). Deserts and drinks are optional but are not Scripturally mandated.

No part of the lamb can be raw (red or pink) or boiled in any liquid; it must be cooked with fire, so cooked in an oven or over an open flame is acceptable but microwaving is not [Exo 12:9]

Every part of the lamb that is not consumed during the meal is to be burned before morning [Exo 12:10]. All the remains completely disappearing into ashes is not mandated but should be the goal. The idea is that we see God consuming His portion of the sacrifice.

Eat the Passover meal with your belt buckled (you must wear a belt); with your shoes on your feet and a staff in your (non-eating) hand [Exo 12:11].

Passover must be celebrated every year forever [Exo 12:14].

Passover is celebrated for seven consecutive, twenty-four hour periods; All leaven in our homes (and all other places under our authority) are to be cleaned out during the 1st 24 hour period; no one is allowed to eat anything with leaven in it during this seven day period; anyone who consumes anything with leaven in it during this period is to be shunned by those who keep the feast, until the feast is over [Exo 12:15]

No leaven is to be found in our homes (or other buildings under our authority) during this seven day celebration and everyone who eats leaven during this time, whether a believer, a non-believer, a babe in the Lord; whether Jew or Gentile, whether born in Yisrael or elsewhere is to be shunned by those who participate in the celebration [Exo 12:19].

We cannot allow anyone to stay in our homes who is unwilling to fully celebrate this feast. We and everyone in our homes are commanded to do this, no exceptions. So we need to make sure that anyone who stays with us is willing to live by our rules; if they are not, we must not allow them to stay with us no matter their situation [Exo 12:19].

There is to be a Holy Assembly during the 1st 24 hour period and a Holy Assembly during the last 24 hour period; no one is allowed to perform work for which someone might be paid during these two periods of time; the only work that is allowed is what ever it takes to prepare the meals [Exo 12:16].

We are commanded to spend seven days in a sukah. In this case, a day is a 24 hour period from sundown, to sundown.

We are commanded to collect the materials for our sukot on the first day. Since that day begins at sundown, it is acceptable to collect the materials during the day time hours of the following day which is still considered the first day. For example, if the feast begins at sundown on Wednesday, we can stay in our homes Wednesday night and collect the items for our sukah Thursday afternoon. However, if we do this, we have to spend the eighth night in our sukah and leave on the morning of the ninth day because we are commanded to dwell in the sukot for seven (24 hour periods) days. So, if our feast starts on Wednesday night and we collect and setup our tents on Thursday, we will spend the night Thur, Fri, Sat, Sun, Mon, Tue, Wed, Thursday and go home Friday morning.

If we decide to camp out on the night of the first day, we cannot set up our tents until after the sun goes down. For example, if the feast begins on Wednesday night, and we spend the night on Wednesday night, we are not allowed to set up our tents or gather the twigs and leaves until sundown Wednesday evening. If we gather our materials before or after the first day of the feast, we disobey the command to collect the things needed for our tent on the 1st day.

We are commanded to have a barbeque all eight days.

We are commanded to spin in circles, dance, leap and shout for joy like drunkards all eight days (Lev).

Everyone within our gates, i.e., everyone under our authority and/or under our roof; family members, friends, servants (hired hands), proselytes, ministers, orphans and widows must celebrate the holiday with us (Deu).

All Nations that do not celebrate sukot will go without rain (Zac).
